The Ground and Goal of Human Life

By CHARLES GRAY SHAW, Ph.D.

Professor of Ethics in New York University

The Ground and Goal of Human Life is a work that will prove of interest to all who believe that the coming of peace demands a restatement of life's fundamental problems, as well as a revision of obvious politics.

As a study in major morality, the work is adapted to the more advanced student in the college and the more serious reader in the public library. Although expressed in philosophic form, The Ground and Goal rejoices in a concrete content, æsthetic, ethical, and religious.

Independent in its views, the book celebrates the individualistic sentiments of Emerson, Nietzsche, Dostoievsky, Wagner, Baudelaire, and others.
